250 GOLD STARRED MOTHERS IN LINE

Form Feature of Imposing Memorial Day Parade in Brooklyn.

Monument to Slain Drafted Men Is Dedicated in Bronx.

In the other boroughs, as in Manhattan, the parades and exercises of Memorial Day had a new appeal to patriotgether under the flag whose gloryuthey had maintained.

The grandfather of Gettysburg, the sor of Santiago and the grandson of the Argonne received such an evation from the crowds as was probably never lifted before on the day of heroic remembrance. And there was another call to brance. And there was another call to the hearts of the onlookers, the sight of so mapy women in white with gold stars on their arms, leading the parades of the fighting men.

Over in Brooklyn, where the celebration was a memorable one, 250 of these, most of them mothers whose sons lie in the carefully tended military cemeteries of France, walked at the head of the procession. Mothers, wives and sisters, all in spotless white, wore around their foreheads chaplets of laurel leaves and circling their right arms were bands of black upon which gleamed gold stars. They marched with dry eyes and with heads proudly uplifted, however sad their thoughts may have been, and as the parade passed through heavily throughs! thoughts may have been, and as the parade passed through heavily thronged streets the applause fairly thundered in their bonces.

Route Shorter Than Usual.

The route of the Brooklyn parade was shorter than had been the custom, prob-ably in recognition of the fact that the ably in recognition of the fact that the veterans of the civil war were feeble of body, however valiant of heart. About 350 of these marched yesterday, and their average age, it was estimated, was 79. The journey under a hot sun from Washington and Lafayette avenues to the grateful shade of the trees of Prospect Park West was quite long enough for Perhaps 15,000 veterans of the three Perhaps 15,000 veterans of the three wars were in line, and the order of progress was as follows: The women led, then came a detail of mounted policemen, then a battalion of men that had lost sons or very close relatives in the great war, then Lewis S. Plicher, grand marshal; the Fourteen Infantry under Col. Fred W. Baldwin, the Thirteenth Infantry under Col. Clarence W. Smith, the Twenty-third Infantry under Col. L. J. Praeger, the Forty-seventh Infantry under Lieut-Col. Harry B. Col. L. J. Praeger, the Forty-seventh Infantry under Lieut.-Col. Harry B. Baldwin, the Second Field Artillery under Col. Walter U. Carlin and Squadron C under Major Cornelius S. Debevoise; the American Legion, commanded by Brig.-Gen. George W. Wingate; the civil war veterans under command of A. Rosa Matheson and the Spanish American war veterans.

The long reviewing stand extended from a point a little beyond the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument to Ninth street and was occupied by perhaps 15,000 persons. Col. Robert Bacon, formerly Ambassador to France, who died Thursday night, was to have re-viewed the veterans. In his place the honor was assumed by Col. Antoine de Page of the Belgian Army, Gen. James McAleer of the G. A. R., and Gen. James D. Bell.

It was interesting to note along the line of march and in the reviewing stand that the keenest attention of the crowds was given to the old men of he Civil War, few of them under four score, many obviously quite feeble. Their commander, A. Ross Matheson, was a picturesque figure with his long white beard and wearing the uniform which now looks so old fashioned. Most of the G. A. R. posts that turned out were able to present only slim squads, no more than a corporal's guard in each. It was noted, too, that the Red each. It was noted, too, that the Red Devils, the fighting remnant of the old Fourteenth, whose red trousers and tasseled turbans have been so familiar to Brooklynites, have bowed to Father Time. Yesterday for the first time in more than haif a century they did not walk. A large float carried their small company. One of the finest cheers of the day leaped forth when every one of the old men stood erect, and saluted most precisely as their float rolled past the reviewing officers. For the grandsires of battle it took but a few minutes to pass the centre of the stand, though it was not so many years ago though it was not so many years ago that the disciplined tread of their feet nade the earth quiver.

The lithe, spring-steel youths just back

France, many of them wearing their deep chests the familiar de Guerre or the Distinguished Croix de Guerre or the Distinguished Service Cross, and some proudly exhibiting the brilliant Legion of Honor, all in their steel helmets, formed the greatest possible contrast to the men of '61. These got a reception all along the line that surely made them proud and happy. None of these younger veterans was more acclaimed than one of Brookiyn's special heroes, the young Brigger. George Wingate, as he went by in command of the American Legion, and none of the onlookers had greater reason to be proud than the old fighter. Gen. George W. Wingate, his father. George W. Wingate, his father

Bronx Monument Unveiled.

The day was carnestly celebrated in The Bronx with a parade in honor of the G. A. R. and the unveiling of a monument to the selected service men of before diplomacy can be allowed to take Draft Board 2 who died for their country. Only 151 veterans of the Civil War turned out this year, all that remained had filed into the tomb preceded by a of Oliver Tilden Post No. 96 and Vander-bilt Post No. 136. Many of these, un-lain Edward El Stewart and Officer of

The parade started at 134th street and Alexander avenue, proceeded in Alexander avenue to Third avenue, to Cortiandt avenue to 158th street, to Eiton Place, to Washington avenue, to St. Paul's Place, to Fulton avenue, to 169th street, to McKinley Square, where the reviewing stand was placed. Henry Bruckner, the Borough President, reviewed the column. Acting as escort to the G. A. R. were the Eighth Coast Artillery Corps, the Second Field Artillery, the United Spanish War Vetsrans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Old Timers' Association, and other military and civic societies. Morris Dietsch was grand marshal, with Anthony McOwen as chief of staff.

The memorial shaft to the dead of ert L. Moran, president of the Board of Aldermen, accepted the monument on behalf of the city, and George M. S. Schulz, Surrogate, Gelivered the dedica-Schulz, Surrogate, Gelivered the description address.

In Newark, as elsewhere in New Jersey, Memorial Day was celebrated with parades and public meetings, which attracted the largost crowds in years. There were two parades in Newark, one in honor of the G. A. R. and the other held by the 312th Infantry, most of them Newark men that fought overseas. The G. A. R. veterans paraded first, then reviewed the procession of the younger 15,000 VETERANS MARCH

15,000 VETERANS MARCH

The street over the City Hall. Aerial bombs were fired over Broad street as the 512th passed between immense crowds. The members of the regiment will go to Camp Dix to-day to be mustered out.

ared out.

At the Newark Bay yards of the Sub-At the Newark Bay yards of the Submarine Boat Corporation the day was celebrated by the launching of three large ships, making fifty-two since Memorial Day, 1918. The three ships put in the water yesterday are the Caino, Assinippi and Pawtucket. The Caino was Christened by Miss Rebecca Fleming of the Washington office of the United States Shipping Board. The Pawtucket was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christened by Miss Inex H. Watson of Pawtucket, R. I. The Assinipping was christianed was christened by Miss Inex H.

Square, at Myrtle and Bushwick ave-nues, ended at the National Cometery at Cypress Hills after it had been joined by other processions. At the cemetery Gen. Alexander made an address

90 VETERANS GO

Sarcophagus of the Great Union General Is Strewn With Flowers.

Some few hundred persons yesterday both few hundred persons yesterday "Human ingenuity has its limitations."

"Human ingenuity has its limitations."

"Human ingenuity has its limitations." minds for a long enough period of time vices at Grant's Tomb and to strew with

From the start of the ceremonies when the cruiser Seattle, lying close by in the Hudson, fired a salute of twenty-one guns to the commander of the Union forces, until the procession of veterans and admirers of the dead moved slowly out of the dimly lighted tomb to the strains of the "Battle Hymn of the Re-public," the services belonged exclu-sively to the Union's defenders.

The exercises were conducted by the U. S. Grant Post of the Grand Army of the Republic, and about ninety members of that command, in their hand-some blue uniforms with an abundance of glit trimmings, occupied the benches that were placed outside of the tomb, where Past Commanders Fenwick Hedley, William C. Peckham, Lewis L.

knaki uniforms, but to find, even among the young troops of the present day, a more soldierly looking body than the civil war veterans presented would have been an extremely discovered the soldierly looking body than the civil war veterans presented would have been an extremely discovered to the soldierly looking body than the civil war veterans presented would have been an extremely discovered to the control of the contro nander Pilcher was deeply moved when he made the discovery that Capt. Kellogg, commander of the cruiser Huntington, who sat upon the platform with him, was the son of one of his fold comrades in arms and warm friends.

Past Commander's Discovery.

The veteran warriors listened with solemn attention to the reading of Lincoln's Clettyshurg address by Page Controln's Gettysburg address by Past Commande: Pilcher, who told them that never have the words of the martyred President neant so much as at the present time. Prof. Samuel P. Orth of Cornell University in making the principal memorial oration referred to the present interna tional whirl, and made comparisons wi civil war times.

He'said that neither compromise, soft

Speaking of present evils, he said that class envy and hatred stand uppermost among our dangers, and that cooperation of all free and wholesome units is urgently needed. He said that we must argently needed. He said that we must all stand under one flag, and that each man should have the right to work out his own future, good or bad, without a forced reliance upon the artificial struc-ture of a socialistic state. When he halled Gen. Grant's demand for unconditional surrender and said that the sword must decisively defeat the for able to endure the hours tramp under a het sun, rode in carriages.

The parade started at 154th street veterans and many of their relatives had grand marshal, with Anthony McOwen as chief of staff.

The memorial shaft to the dead of Board 2 was unveiled in the public square at the intersection of Morris and Third avenues and 132th street. It was provided by a military parade which included detachments from all of the State Guard units in Manhattan and The Bronx, details from the United States Army and Navy, representatives of the seven war work agencies and members of numerous religious, civic and patriotic organizations.

The monument is the first of the kind to be unveiled in New York. Its cost, $3,000, was raised by popular subscription. Neille Ryan of 448 East 146th street, whose brother, George, was killed in action in France, pulled the cord agency of soldier-fans witnessed the game.

IN BATTERY PARK

Service for Men Killed in War.

sun of a hot summer morning and listen to the words expressing a faith that sent men to battle to die bravely. Under the vestments of the priests could be glimpeed a bit of drab uniform, for they had most of them served either here or abroad. It was suggestive of a grim background for the quaintly colored robes of the choir boys and the brilliant vestments of Archbishop Hayes. It was the memory of the dead who had died in that uniform which they were recalling sacredly.

in that uniform which they were recalling accredity.

Archbishop Hayes and the clergy assembled in the rectory of the Church of Our Lady of the Rossry, in State street, and then the procession moved slowly, the choir boys singing, along the eastern wide of the park and through the main walk to a stand in which an altar had been erected. The celebrant of the mass was Mgr. George J. Waring, who was vicar-general to Archbishop Hayes when he was Chaptain Bishop of the Catholics in the army and who served as chaptain on Governors Island. The sermon was TO GRANT'S TOMB on Governors Island. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Joseph C. Fleming, chaplain of the Knights of Columbua.

Peace without religion is a counterfeit and artificial, said the Rev. Father reconstruction in the light of human reason only," he said, "they may change the world's maps, lay out new avenues of commerce and erect new political sovereignties, but they will never change men's hearts, and men's hearts may be but so many storm centres without the abiding presence of Jesus Christ to calm the waves of selfish passion.

pore than piece together the shattered fragments of the plaything civilization that the cruel war smashed. It was not a Christian civilization that went flowers the sarcophagus wherein lie the to pieces; it was a man made substi-ashes of the great General of the Union.

> "Our purpose here to-day is to rev erence the memory of the boys in blue and khaki who died as Americans, but and khaki who died
>
> American children of God. They are enahrined in our Catholic hearts, regardless of creed or color. They are ours > to love, they are ours to remember, but
> to love, they are ours to remember, but > to love remembrances must have a > their love remembrances must have a > and sallors followed the platoon of > counted police at the head of the protheir love remembrances must have a spiritual meaning. May God be good to the boys who did not come back."
>
> There was a military escort of sixtem men from the Twenty-second Infantry and a naval escort from the Brooklyn navy yard. Major-Gua. Thomas H. Barry and Admiral John D. dcDonald represented the army and navy. At the elevation of the chalks the drums of the Twenty-second rolled and the guard of honor brought arms to chapiain of the Blue pevils; Marcel Knecht, Thomas R. Rush, Morgan J.

QUEENS HAS BIG PROCESSION. Veterans From Camp Mills Marel

in Memorial Parade.

Eighteen thousand men, women and children of the Fourth Ward marched yesterday in Queens' biggest Memorial He'said that neither compromise, soft platitudes nor pacifism could have prevented the civil war. He called the aged veterans, the golden link between the early colonists and the doughboya Referring to the Kaiser he said, "I would like to have the privilege of putting a bunch of chrysanthemums on his grave bunch of chrysanthemums on his grave levery Memorial Day.

U. S. A., reviewed the parade from a grand stand at Hillside and Clinton averaged at 1,200 overseas veterans who are stationed at Camp Mills. The line of March extended for five miles, from Union Course, through Woodhaven, Richmond Hill and Jamaica. The veterans troops were led by their own milli-Day parade. Gen. Robert Alexande U. S. A., reviewed the parade from grand stand at Hillside and Clinton ave bunch of chrysanthemums on his grave every Memorial Day.

"I have no sympathy with the modern upstart who wants to rewrite the Constitution," he mid; "and I have little use for curbstone propheta."

Cooperation Urgently Needed.

Speaking of present evils, he said that

Read of the constitution of the cons York Guard, also paraded, under com-mand of Col. Clarence W. Smith.

There were seven divisions, made up of various organizations and clubs, war work activities organizations, letter carriers, Boy Scouts, vetern firemen, polic reserves and women of the Red Cross. The Jamaica and St. Mary's hospits had a section in the parade. Thirty-five nurses formed a square, in the centre o which was a float depicting the interio of a modern hospital room Manchester Textile Market. MANCHESTER, May 30 .- Cloths gular, with an extensive demand and n encouraging turnover. Yarns have ouraging turnover. Yarns har sales of American and Exp an encouraging turn dening; sales of An tian qualities larger.

MEMORIAL PARADE DRAWS THOUSANDS

Up Riverside Drive to Honor Dead.

al Day had a new appeal to patriot.

Three generations marched toser under the flag whose gioryuthey maintained.

The Assinippi was daughter of G. O. Anthony, supervising the choir boys and the occasional roar of an airplane. In the background far out in the river a great transport loaded with returning troops alid sliently and field mass at the Battery for the soldier
field mass at the Battery for the soldier field mass at the Battery for the soldier escrited by veterans recently from the A.E. F. and by veterans of the Spanish-damerican war. The parade was led by twenty-five motor cars filled with wounded soldiers from the army hospital at Fox Hills.

It was an impressive picture that draw many thousand people to stand in the sum of a hot summer morning and lister.

the thought of the many thousand graves which much be decorated this year with strange flowers by hands which are alien in spite of the grateful tenderness which inspires their efforts, lent a solemnity and sadness to the observances of variends. servances of yesterday, there was a freated by the knowledge that the sact fice of the men who lie in France and Flanders, on the barren Scottish Isles, where the victims of two submarine at-tacks were laid; in England, Italy and on the bleak Murman coast, had brought victory to their more fortunate comracts. So in the spirit of the day was less of sadness and more of understanding than few years ago, when the ever thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic marched alone to the monument on Riverside to commemorate comrades who would never again answer "Present" as

The cool, clear morning brought out a large attendance of the Grand Army men. Some of the posts were followed by detachments from the Sons of Veterans, many of whom were the khaki uniforms and gold chevrons of service overseas, the veterans of the future closing the gaps in the depleted ranks of the men in faded blue. Many of the Spanish war veterans, too, were in olive drab, denoting that the wearers had answered a second time the call of service The parade was reviewed from a stans at Ninetieth street by Gov. Smith, Mayor Hyian and Major-Gen. O'Ryan, commanding the New York Guard. The Veteran Corps of Artillery under the command of Major Bryce W. Metcalf and the Old Guard of the city of New York. York, commanded by Major Edward Havemeyer Snyder, acted as a guard of hoster. The two organizations were posted on each side of the Drive between Eighty-ninth and Ninety-first streets. It had been announced that Lieut.-Col. Theodore Roosevelt would be

THOUSANDS of people 80 to

Archbishop Hayes Attends Old and New Veterans March

SCENE IS IMPRESSIVE ONE EXERCISES AT MONUMENT

Peace Without Religion Coun- Lieut.-Col. Roosevelt Not in Reviewing Party, as He Was Not Invited.

It was an impressive picture that drew many thousand people to stand in the grant's Tomb and other parades in sun of a hot summer morning and listen Brooklyn and The Brook. Brooklyn and The Bronz.

Gen. George R. Dyer, commanding the at work. Joseph S. Marcus, president First Brigade, N. Y. G., and his staff; the Seventy-first Infantry, Col. J. Hollis elected president of the United States, was elected president of the Memorial Association. The conferences were attended by representatives of the seven war ing; the Ninth Coast Artillery, Col. George W. Burleigh: the Twelfth Infantry, Col. Nelson R. Burr; Seventh Infantry, Lieut.-Col. Buchanan Houston; the First Field Artillery Medical States. the Seventy-first Infantry, Col. J. Hollis Wells commanding; the Sixty-ninth Infantry, Col. John J. Phelan commanding; the Ninth Coast Artillery, Col. George W. Burleigh; the Twelfth Infantry, Col. Nelson R. Burr; Seventh Infantry, Lieut.-Col. Buchanan Houston; the First Field Artillery, Major M. W. Ehrleh, First Field Haupital and Third the First Field Artillery, Major M. W. Ehrich; First Field Hospital and Third Ambulance Company, Major J. F. Dunseith; First Hattalion, Signal Corpa, Major James C. Fox, and Squadron A. First Cavalry, Major Alfred Wendt.

A battalion of the Guardes Lafayette, their uniforms reminiscent of Detaille's particles. paintings of scenes in the Franco-Prussian war, and the organization's own san war, and the organizations own band, acted as a special escort to the Grand Army and marched just behind Grand Marshal John B. Trainer and his staff. They were followed by Lafayette Post, No. 140, G. A. R., and Lafayette Camp, Bons of Veterans. Six members of the 165th Zouaves in their picturesque uniforms of red and blue came next, carrying the frayed regimental colors. Cameron Post, No. 79, was accompanied by the Klities Band, with its herculean composed of Grand Army men and Sons of Veterans, while the Spanish War Veterans made up the third division. The Army and Navy Union and a con-tingent of the American Legion, led by Capt. A. L. Boyce, formed the fourth division. In this division the police veterans, 500 in number, marched. Among them was Sergeant Frank Up-ton, who left the force to enlist at the outbreak of the war, was taken prison and passed several months in a German

Police Reserves in Line.

Deputy Commissioner Rodman Wans maker, formed the sixth division. The American Legion marched as the sev-enth division and the Junior Naval Reserve, the American Cadets, Junior Naval and Marine Scouts and school cadet organizations composed the eighth and ninth divisions.

and ninth divisions.

Memorial exercises at the Soldiers and Saliors Monument were held after the end of the parade passed the reviewing stand. The members of Ella Bixby Tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." The Rev. F. S. Halloway delivered the invocation. ivered the invocation.

The Rev. Christian F. Reisner made an address in which he pointed out that the men of the Grand Army had been the first soldiers to fight for other's freedom and said that the men who fought the Spanish War and the World Var were carrying on their traditions. The East Side's observance of Mem orial Day was strikingly marked by the flauguration of movements to further a spirit of Americanism among immigrants. A meeting held in the People's Hospital at Twelfth atreet and Second avenue resulted in the organization of a Soldiers and Sailors Association of the East Side. he East Side. At antoher meeting in 77 in memory of prisoners who died in New York in the War of Revolution. Alexander Hamilton Post No. 182, G. A. R., placed a wreath at the base of the mcnument to Gen. Hamilton. The Sons of the Revolution decorated the tablet in St. Paul's raised in memory of Gen. St. Paul's raised in memory of Gen. ontgomery.

A warning of the danger to the United States from entangling alliances was voiced by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. John P. Chidwick, former chaplain of the battleship Maine, at the fourth annual memorial service before the Maine monument at Columbus Circle yester-held in Pershing Square, Forty-second to be placed on street and Park avenue, yesterday. A dosen mounds of earth, symbolic of the ## 10,000 ATTEND FIELD MASS.

Held in Jersey City.

A field mass for soldiers and sailors was held in Jersey City at West Side Park at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, under the auspices of the Knights of olumbus. The mass was attended by Bishop John J. O'Connor of Jersey City. and by representatives of the twenty-six Cataolic churches in that city. The preacher was the Rev. Bernard M. Bo-gan, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Plainthat righteousness is the backbone of a nation and that the people of this country must cultivate the cardinal virtues.

1,562 GRAVES IN BRITAIN DECORATED

Army and Navy Officers Place Flags and K. of C. Wreaths.

LONDON, May 30 .- The graves of 1,562 United States soldiers and sailors were decorated to-day in many parts of the United Kingdom. American flags were Prisk, who suggested to President Wilson his designation of June 14 as Flag the arrangements committee left London As pay, impressive memorial services were several days ago with flags and wreaths ance several days ago with flags and wreaths to be placed on lonely graves in distant parts of the island.

The committee was composed of dosen mounds of earth, symbolic of the graves of American soldiers in France and Flanders, were heaped up there, with a wooden cross at the head of each. The Rev. Christian F. Reisner culogized the dead. Members of Peter Cooper Post, G. A. R., were present. Paul Kamerer, a bugler of the civil war, sounded taps.

The committee was composed of Robert P. Skinner, Consul General: of Lafayette. Marshal Petain, commander of the French army, gave directions to French, the British Red Cross, and Sir Stuart Campbell and Major John Evelyn Wrench of the English Speaking Union.

Capt. Plers W. Legh represented the Prince of Wales, who sent a wreath of read: Prince of Wales, who sent a wreath of rend:

| Prince of Wales, who sent a wreath of rend:
| "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited French troops stationed with red, white | "Thave invited > vice at Brentwood, which closed with the firing of a volley and the playing of taps and the British and American antaps and the British and American an-thems. Among those who attended the rites will be rendered them and with services were Consul-General Skinner, Col. Smith, the Earl of Meath and rep-valiant men will endure in our hearts." resentatives of the Archbishop of Can-terbury, the Bishop of London and the British Red Cross. There were also a number of American soldiers and sail ora and nurses and representatives of various Anglo - American organizations. Viscount Northeliffe, who is ill in France, sent a wreath of illies and or-

At St. Elthreda's Church, in Holborn the East Side. At antoher meeting in 77
Delancey street, the Seventy-seventh Division Memorial Association was founded.

Both societies will try to combat Bolshevism and to destroy the sinister in try must cultivate the cardinal virtues. London, the Rev. Father Kennedy said tachment of the garrison paraded town to-day in celebration of Memorial town was attended by the American persons attended the mass. Three thousand were in the parade, which was in six divisions, with a band for each.

London, the Rev. Father Kennedy said tachment of the garrison paraded town to-day in celebration of Memorial Association was persons attended the mass. Three thousand were in the parade, which was in six divisions, with a band for each. London, the Rev. Father Kennedy said in memory of those

At Liverpool and Islay, as well as at

ALL AMERICAN DEAD IN FRANCE HONORED

Wilson and Pershing Make Addresses at Graves.

Paris, May 30.—Not a grave of any merican who fell in the great war was overlooked into-day's observance of Me-morial Day in France. Some of the serand sacrificed their lives—in the ceme-teries where they were laid to rest. Oth-ers took place near the hospital centres, further back, where those whose wounds

P. Chidwick, former chaplain of the battleship Maine, at the fourth annual memorial service before the Maine at Columbus Circle yesterday. Veterans of five wars were present.

"Let the League of Nations, or the Parliament of Nations, come if it may, but do not permit it to interfere with the suprems independence of our country," said he. Pointing to the monument, he continued: "That tribute to our martyred dead testifies what we did in '88 for an oppressed nation. American has always been free, and let her remain free—the same friend to all oppressed in attendities.

"We yielded generously to all conditions in this war and we praise our leader for his service; but let no one in the war service; but let no one in the wat perpetuate its liberty, not alone to make the world safe for democracy, but to make democracy safe for the world."

Through the efforts of Mrs. Laura P. Prisk, who suggested to President Wilson his designation of June 14 as Flag in the American committee left London has carried by the arrangements committee left London has designation of June 14 as Flag in the American committee left London has designation of June 14 as Flag the American committee left London has designation of June 14 as Flag the American committee left London has clearly the continued to the American services were conducted. The American services were conducted. The American services were conducted. The American Expeditionary Force, of the American committee left London has designation of June 14 as Flag the American committee left London has always been free and taken from the surfered white whose of American soldiers and taken from the transports at that port; 41 in small towns and villages in England and the proposed for the American soldiers and taken from the transports at that port; 41 in small towns and villages in England and the proposed for the American the proposed for t

As part of the Memorial Day observance Hugh C. Wallace, American Ambassador to France, went to the Picpus-Cemetery, in the outskirts of Paris, this forenoon and laid a wreath on the tomb near American cemeteries to nd blue ribbon.

Prench army, gave directions to French,

Chaplain Anderson conducted the ser-salute their brothers in arms, failen for the safety of their land and the liberty of the world. Later, when you have

GRAVES DECORATED IN FRANCE

BATONNE, France, May 30 .- American troops, the civil and military authorities, veterans of the war of 1870 and a de-tachment of the garrison paraded the town to-day in celebration of Memorial

Magnificent wreaths were placed by Flowers were laid French and Americans on the graves of

→ In This Week's "Digest" ←

A Valuable Colored Map

The New Germany One of the most interesting features in the May 31st issue of The Literary Digest is a fullpage colored Map showing the new Germany as it will be after the Peace Treaty is signed, and the old Germany as it was before the war. The Map clearly indicates the areas lost by the treaty, those to be awarded by plebiscite, and those to be made international territory. This map will prove invaluable as a present and future source of information and can be cut out and inserted in your encyclopedia, atlas, history, or other reference volume, where it will always be handy as a means of settling doubtful points. There is a wide selection of authoritative, timely, and very interesting news-articles included in this week's "Digest," among which are:

The "Hop" Across the Atlantic

The Exploit of the American Naval Aviators Considered From All Its Intensely Interesting Angles. The Peace Treaty's Critics Wilson and Wine War-Risk Insurance and Red Tape

Transforming Canadian Fighters Into Farmers The Age of the Air Is Here New Drinks for Old Farming in Spirals Candy as a Food An American Artist Inspired by Alaska A Future Lecture Deluge More Light From Korea War's Credentials to Missions Lettonia—A Description of the Country and Its People

To Help "Unchinafy" China Radical Shell-fire on Paris "William Hohenzollern to the Bar" What Is a Normal Individual? The New Plant Quarantine What Do Fossils Die Of? A New-found Portrait of Burns Poetry Revived in Kipling Stones of Remembrance and Crosses of Sacrifice Best of the Current Poetry News of Finance and Commerce

A Fine Collection of Half-tone Illustrations, Maps, and Cartoons A Word About the Editors of "The Digest"

The editors of most publications come into personal | week to week and its mode of presentation, Always touch with the reading public through special their study is to be impartial and self-effacing, yet their individual views. Not so with THE LITER-ARY DIGEST, whose editorial policy is strictly impersonal, not a hint of the opinions of its staff on any question appearing in its columns. Neverthe-articles, editorials, and so forth, in which they voice they leave their expert mark on everything that they handle, for they are all proved experts, each in his particular field, whether it be politics, art, science, religion, letters or what not. They give you of their best, seeking for no acclaim, but constantly less the editors of THE DIGEST are a very real and striving to present for your consideration all the powerful influence in the community, because they determine the subject matter of the magazine from THE DIGEST its acknowledged unique distinction.

Mark of

Digest

May 31st Number on Sale To-day—All News-dealers—10 Cents

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY (Publishers of the Famous NEW Standard Dictionary), NEW YORK